

Fields in Trust and Groundwork Young Champion Award 2016

Do you know a young person working to make their community better by helping people get outside, get active and love where they live?

The Fields in Trust Young Champion Award is celebrating young people across the UK who are working to improve an outdoor green space in their neighbourhood.

Supported by national charity Groundwork, the award is open to all young people aged between 16 and 24 in the UK. Our judging panel will invite a shortlist of finalists to Fields in Trust's prestigious Awards Ceremony at Lord's Cricket Ground in London on Wednesday 30th November, where the winner will be announced.

Last year's winner,
17 year old George Friend

Last year's winner, 17 year old George Friend initiated the refurbishment of the Aubrey Meads Play Area in Bristol.

George wrote to his village magazine to express his concerns about the state of the space and after a lot of hard work and local council involvement a new play area was opened in October 2014. George received his award from the BBC's Ore Oduba and Groundwork at last year's national Awards Ceremony.

Tell us about the creative and innovative ways young people are improving and caring for our public parks, playgrounds and green spaces.

Nominate your Young Champion by 23rd October.
