11:FS Foundry forms global partnership with Google Cloud

Thursday 21 October, 2021

London, UK. - 11:FS Foundry today announced a partnership with Google Cloud, creating an end-to-end solution for businesses building new financial services propositions. The partnership will give Google Cloud clients a clear solution for embedding finance into their product set, grow their market share and boost their revenue.

11:FS Foundry is one of the first true Financial Services Operating Systems (FS OS), it helps businesses build and launch new financial services propositions, not years. Using 11:FS Foundry, traditional banks, neobanks and non-banks can scale their fintech offerings at speed.

11:FS Foundry itself is hosted on Google Cloud's platform, enabling significantly increased uptime, global reach and strong security and encryption.

Simon Taylor, CPO of 11:FS Foundry and 11:FS Co-founder said: "Adding fintech to your offering and embedding finance can boost a company's revenue by up to five times[1]. Google Cloud is the ideal partner in our mission to help banks and non-banks alike build game changing financial products."

"The financial services industry is undergoing immense transformation and we are excited to partner with 11:FS," said Adrian Poole, Director, Financial Services at Google Cloud. "The focus to build intelligent customer solutions fit for the modern digital landscape, while using best-in-class infrastructure from Google Cloud will support banks on their digital transformation."
