20i Recognised as PC Pro’s ‘Best Web Host’ for Fourth Consecutive Year

Thursday 5 November, 2026

20i has been named “Best Web Host” by PC Pro magazine for the fourth consecutive year.

The honour, given as part of the annual PC Pro Awards, is based on independent votes from customers and PC Pro readers, reflecting consistent performance and high levels of customer satisfaction.

Voters judged nominees across a range of key criteria, with 20i securing the highest scores across all award categories, including Customer Support (98%), Platform Reliability (98%), Value for Money (98%) and Speed (97%).

Coupled with a 100% "Would Buy Again" score, this led to a table topping overall satisfaction of 98%.

20i’s platform is underpinned by sustainable, scalable cloud infrastructure as opposed to fixed single server setups.

This continued recognition reflects the platform’s consistent uptime, performance, and support standards. It also highlights the trust users place in 20i’s ability to deliver scalable, secure and sustainable hosting for a wide range of online projects.

Lloyd Cobb, director at 20i said, “It’s a privilege to be recognised once again by PC Pro readers. We’re committed to building a world-class hosting platform, and winning this award for the fourth year in a row confirms that our ongoing investment in performance, security, and customer experience is delivering real results for our users. The fact that 100% of respondents said they would buy from 20i again is something we’re immensely proud of, and it drives us to keep raising the bar.”

More than a million websites are hosted on the 20i platform, spanning SMEs, digital agencies, and individual users.
