

250 free printed hoodies available to UK charities as HoodieHut campaign returns for third year

Friday 31 July, 2026

Charities across the UK can apply for branded clothing for their staff and volunteers from 31 July until 14 August 2026.

Sheffield-based HoodieHut has launched the 2026 edition of its Hoodies for Charity campaign, offering free printed clothing to UK charities during the school summer holidays.

Running from Friday 31 July to Friday 14 August 2026, the campaign gives eligible charities the chance to apply for free printed garments to help volunteers, fundraisers and team members stand out at events, community projects and awareness campaigns.

The annual initiative is made possible by HoodieHut's leavers hoodie orders throughout the year. As the summer holidays are naturally quieter for production, the business uses that time to give something back to charities and community organisations.

This year's campaign follows previous Hoodies for Charity rounds, where HoodieHut supported a range of UK charities with branded clothing for their teams.

David Cavill, Director at HoodieHut said:

"The school summer holidays are usually a quieter period for us, so we wanted to use that time in a positive way. Hoodies for Charity lets us focus our printing skills towards charities that are doing brilliant work across the UK.

"Every school leavers hoodie order helps make this possible. It is a simple idea, but it means charities can get useful branded clothing without having to spend money that could be going back into their work."

Charities can apply via the Hoodies for Charity campaign page between Friday 31 July and Friday 14 August 2026.
