Artokingo, maker of funny t-shirts, now offers larger prints

Wednesday 27 May, 2015

UK's first and only artwear brand Artokingo is now offering largely printed t-shirts. Manager, Mr. Deniz, states: "Our commitment to putting customers at the heart of business helps us to improve Artokingo. We take every single feedback seriously. Although our regular prints are above the standard size, we have noticed some demand for huge prints from customer feedbacks. Now, almost 20% of our sales consist of largely printed t-shirts."

About the Brand:

London-based producer of funny t-shirts and cool t-shirts Artokingo has been founded in February, 2014. Their t-shirts have been widely popular within the people who want to add a unique detail to their fashionable look.

In opposition to their global competitors such as famous Threadless UK and Redbubble UK, Artokingo is strictly collaborating with elite t-shirt designers only from around the world. Moreover, Artokingo pays artists the best royalties on the planet. Plus, they print those unique designs on their own organic cotton t-shirts which are produced and printed here in the UK.
