Asset Protection Group acquires ADJ Fire & Security, expanding its capabilities in the Fire & Security sector in the UK

Asset Protection Group (APG) has completed the acquisition of ADJ Fire & Security, strengthening its position as the go to provider of security and fire life-safety services across the UK.

Founded in 2014, based in Bolton, ADJ Fire & Security is an established brand delivering a full suite of fire detection, CCTV, intruder alarm, access control and fire extinguisher solutions to commercial, industrial and residential clients.

With ADJ's experienced team of national engineers and a well-established customer base, APG will further enhance its ability to provide end-to-end compliance, protection and support across multiple sectors, from national multi-site operators to SMEs.

The move facilitates the further growth of the APG footprint in the fire and security sector and progresses its goal to be a leading provider in the compliance sector.

Ben Jackson, Group Managing Director of Asset Protection Group, said:

"ADJ is an excellent addition to APG. ADJ has a fantastic reputation for technical expertise and customer service with long-standing relationships with customers at a regional and national level. Bringing them into the Group allows us to expand the range of fire and security solutions that we are able to deliver to our customers. Supported by the scale and investment of APG we look forward to working with the leadership team at ADJ."

Andy Moore, Managing Director & Liam Hargreaves, Sales Director of ADJ Fire & Security, added:

"Joining APG marks an exciting next chapter for ADJ. The Group shares our values with long-term focus on quality and compliance. Our customers will benefit from greater resources and an expanded service offering, while our team gains the backing needed to grow and innovate."

ADJ Fire & Security has a fantastic and experienced team who will remain in position and ADJ will continue to operate under its existing brand, ensuring continuity for customers on delivery of service, maintenance, and installation work.

The acquisition aligns with APG's strategy to build a national network of fire and security specialists, offering a comprehensive range of accredited services including fire detection, suppression, CCTV, alarm systems, emergency response, and compliance support.
