Two decades of Avast Business experience provided to UK Avast Partners

London, United Kingdom / Prague, Czech Republic, February 17, 2021 – Avosec is now entering our 20th year in Partnership with Avast Business, making us their longest active UK distributor. We started business with Avast in 2002 when they were then known as Alwil software. I recall my first visit to the Czech capital, where I was welcomed and introduced to the two founders Eduard and Pavel and Ondrej Vlek, who is now CEO.

The company has grown into one of the largest Cybersecurity firms globally. The name of Avast is synonymous with world-class award-winning antivirus protection for both businesses and consumers. Despite its growth, the Czech Cybersecurity giant has retained its core values. They develop not only world-leading solutions, but also continue to reward loyal Partners for selling Avast products.

Avast helps Partners achieve their true potential by supporting customers, believing in partners' ability and helping them deliver award-winning Avast Business Antivirus software products to protect both businesses and consumers from the threats posed in today's online world.

Avosec has continued to provide Avast Reseller sales and technical support throughout the UK and has accumulated unrivalled product knowledge, to the standard of Avast themselves.

James Norris, CEO at Avosec, said "I'm very proud that despite the growth and success of Avast software, we at Avosec remain the leading and most experienced UK Distribution partner. Avast software has entrusted us to continue to provide Avast Business products to UK reseller partners and managed service providers. We provide our Avast Partners with the most experienced product information, account management, training, technical support and consultancy available. I want to thank the Avast management for their continued support and belief in Avosec."

Commenting on the ongoing partnership, Marc Botham VP Worldwide Channels & Alliances at Avast, said, "Over two decades Avosec and Avast have built a trusted and mutually beneficial partnership. We are very proud of the achievements to date and the collective efforts from both organisations to support partners and their customers with best-in-class security software for their business."
