TOTAL COMPLAINTS FOR THE QUARTER DOWN BY OVER 11,400 INCLUDING PPI

Barclays has today published total reportable complaints figures for the third quarter of 2014, which show:

- Total year on year complaints including PPI are down by 11,407 (Q3 2014 150,953, Q3 2013 162,360). Within this -
- PPI (General Insurance complaints) are down 23,596 (Q3 2014 91,302, Q3 2013 114,898)
- Mortgage complaints are up 421 (Q3 2014 2,721, Q3 2013 2,300), due to growth in the number of applications Barclays' handles each day.
- Banking complaints up 12,339 (Q3 2014 54,813 Q3 2013 42,474), driven largely by Claims Management Companies (CMCs) claims, not the day to day experience of customers.

Barclays is the only bank to currently publish its results quarterly, twice as often as required by the Financial Conduct Authority (FCA). We also provide context and analysis on the figures, sharing the key causes of complaints along with an action plan for addressing them.

Matt Hammerstein, Head of Client and Customer Experience at Barclays:

"Total complaints to the bank continue to decrease year on year; however we've seen a rise in banking and mortgage complaints this quarter, which is wholly unacceptable.

"We are relentlessly committed to getting it right for our customers. Putting the customer at the heart of what we do, providing them with seamless and simple products and services is of paramount importance to us. We want to eliminate any cause for our customers to complain and are working tirelessly to make this a reality."

Detailed information on a key cause of complaints is summarised below:

Improving the mortgage journey - what we're doing

We want every customer to have a positive experience of banking with Barclays, especially when making what is often the biggest purchase of their lives. By empowering staff to handle customer issues efficiently, investing in technology to make the digital experience as helpful as possible and by simplifying fees, we're taking a number of steps to make home finance work better for all our customers. Highlighted below are some of the key initiatives:

1. Quicker decisions, greater access: The industry is facing a huge shake-up this year, and we're working hard to reduce the negative impact on our customers. To keep things simple for those who don't need advised services, we're streamlining and automating rate switching services, taking pressure off our frontline advisors, and freeing them up to help customers with more complex requirements.

2. Improving transparency: In this digital age, many of our customers would rather not have to call up to find out how their mortgage application is progressing. So we've developed an online tracking and text alert service, called Track It, to help customers know where they stand in the process, whether at home or on the move.

3. Reducing and simplifying fees: Confusing fees are a problem for our customers, and when they're hard to explain, they can cause frustration, so we're cutting and consolidating fees to help make mortgage charges clear, fair and transparent for everyone that chooses to finance their home with us.

Barclays was recently voted by consumers and intermediaries Best Bank for Mortgages at the Your Mortgage Awards which is encouraging recognition of the impact these initiatives are having for our customers.
