

Beulaz Beauty School and Laser Training Centre Opens a New Hi-Tech Training Centre in Birmingham

Friday 3 January, 2014

Beulaz Beauty School and Laser Training Centre, a leading beauty therapy training provider is opening a brand new training centre in Birmingham. The new centre is expected to open its doors to the public on 1st February and will be used to offer Laser hair removal level 4 course and beauty courses.

Beulaz has been in the forefront as a training centre of choice for thousands of people seeking to venture into the lucrative beauty industry and their new centre is expected to offer full range of courses. The training centre will be used for courses such as Level 4 advanced beauty classes as well as NVQ Level 2 and 3 Beauty Therapy classes including chemical peels, Laser/IPL hair removal and advanced electrolysis for removal of skin blemishes among others.

All users going through training in the centre receive broad training on how to make it in the quickly growing beauty industry using the skills gained in both hands on and theory training. All these are delivered by highly trained Beulaz trainers and thus are able to offer the best in diverse fields. Speaking during the announcement of the new plans, the training centre owner Manroop Ahitan was quoted saying that "the new centre will be equipped with modern training equipments with the capability of training a huge number of trainees without any hitches."

She was further quoted saying "the new training centre in Birmingham will enable us to deliver quality facilities to all out trainees while at the same time easing the pressure on our Slough and Hounslow located training centres which have attracted a growing number of students seeking to enjoy quality training from us"

Manroop who also owns 4 Colaz Advanced Beauty Specialists salons further added that the opening of the new training in Birmingham was driven by her desired to learn while at the same time offering the beauty industry well-balanced and highly qualified beauticians who are able to handle the quickly changing face of the beauty industry. The training centre is intended to offer valuable skills beyond the usual use of chemicals and beauty machinery and instead providing holistic approach on how to run a salon.

"The new centre like her London sister training centre will train the participants on how to develop valuable skills such as how to deal with consultations, handle contradictions and complaints in addition to converting enquirers into transacting clients" said Manroop. "We remain focused in our vision to provide relevant information and trainee engagement thus creating an enabling environment where students not only learn essential skills but also know how to apply what they study in a real-world setting"

Aspiring trainees seeking additional information about the new training centre in Birmingham or the already existing one in London should call 01753 524 125 or visit their website <http://www.beulaz.com/about-us.html>.
