Brave Players Wanted for New Russian Roulette TV Show - London Summer 2012

A new Russian Roulette TV show is seeking players with nerves of steel to take part in their game. Anyone can apply to win huge cash prizes and juicy jackpots; all thats required is a personality and a bravery that astounds an audience.

Nerves of Steel Necessary

Participants have to enjoy three rounds, as glamorous models deliver them dishes they must eat or drink to make it through to the end.

A third of the dishes are disgusting and only those with strong stomachs and a desire to win big will be able to eat the offerings. However, the rewards are immense with cash prizes along the way along with a huge grand finale that promises an amazing jackpot.

Russian roulette is game known to be played only by the brave or stupid, and this new RER TV Show is no different. Contestants can prove their strength by making through each round or choose from three options which include vodka to calm the nerves, passing the dish to a player or even asking a friend or relative to do the dirty deed instead!

Second Chance Saloon

Even the losers will receive a second chance as they will be given a lifeline from the viewers. If they prove popular with the audience theyll be brought back to compete in the grand finale.

This truly is the most unique TV show to shoot onto our screens and people are already queuing to play. To be considered, potential players must survive an online game of Russian roulette. The makers need to know theyre brave enough to take their nerves on stage.

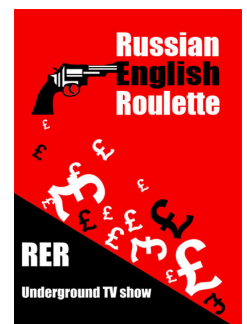

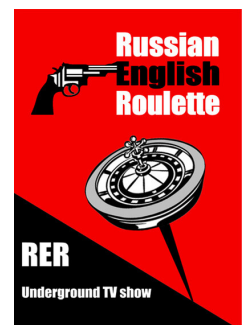

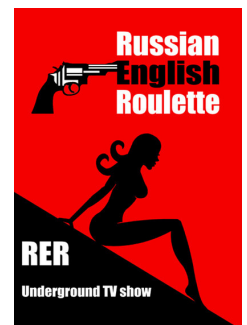

An Extended Invite

Now the invite has been extended to everyone, from all walks of life, people are invited to apply, with the promise of huge cash prizes and the fantastic fame that awaits them.

The programme creators are excited about their TV show that is due to air this summer, filming from a secret location in London they said, Theres nothing of this sort out there at the moment and we cant wait to see how contestants compete. Its going to be riveting viewing for anyone of any age from 16 to 60. Places are limited, so people are urged to join now simply by registering and surviving five shots on <https://rer.im> .
