

Brave Soldier's Story Inspires Titor's Insignia to Release the Single "Freedom Fighter" in aid of ABF The Soldiers' Charity

Thursday 5 September, 2013

Titor's Insignia are excited to announce the release on 24th September of the single "Freedom Fighter", priced 79p and available now for pre-order here. All proceeds will go to ABF The Soldiers' Charity.

Hero Corporal Andy Reid suffered horrific injuries whilst serving in Afghanistan and lost three limbs, but has been an overwhelming inspiration to so many. From the outset he has been determined to live life to the absolute fullest and help others along the way.

ABF The Soldiers' Charity give invaluable lifetime support to serving and retired soldiers and their families, helping towards caring for their physical, mental and financial needs. It is essential that this work should continue to reach as many as possible who desperately need help.

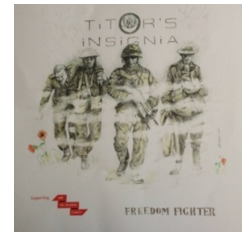

Inspired by Andy and his tireless work with ABF The Soldiers' Charity, the band were moved to release "Freedom Fighters". Originally written six years ago but with lyrics very apt for this wonderful charity, Titor's Insignia approached Andy Reid to appear in the video for the song, and this was the very moving result.

Formed in mid 2008, Titor's Insignia are: Stuart Odgen (lead vocals, rhythm guitar), Rob James (lead guitar), Stephen Swift (drums) and Peter Murphy (bass). They have built themselves a solid reputation, with a crowd-pleasing live set, and pride themselves on raw performances show after show. Their debut album "Fair City Riots" is an electrifying concoction of influences ranging from Britpop to classic rock with a sprinkling of Indie, and healthy dose of Punk thrown in for good measure, and their second album is due for release in the near future.
