Cavell enables Operators and MSPs with upcoming London event

Tuesday 25 October, 2022

London, 25th October 2022 - Cavell Enable will be live at Convene, 22 Bishopsgate, London, on 1st December 2022, featuring special guests Microsoft and a range of sponsors, including SIPPIO, TekVision, and many more.

This dedicated event will explore the rapidly growing Teams telephony enablement market whilst providing real-world insights from some of the leading providers in this space. Forecast to cover more than 30 million users by 2026, Microsoft Teams telephony is an opportunity that service providers cannot afford to neglect.

Whether you are new to the Teams telephony market or already familiar with Operator Connect, Direct Routing, or Teams Phone Mobile, Cavell Enable will provide the platform for a detailed discussion on the key topics and trends.

Attendees will hear from Microsoft about the rapid growth of Teams, the much-anticipated “Teams Phone Mobile (Operator Connect Mobile)” platform, and the growth that partnering could enable.

After the success of the US and UK Cloud Comms Summits earlier in the year, this event will explore the changes Microsoft Teams is making to service provider business models and how broader cloud communications strategies must adapt to a rapidly changing market.

There’s also a fantastic opportunity to meet an expanding Teams ecosystem of complementary hardware and software vendors in one place. Supplier partnerships have never been more important, with value-added services and OTT solutions key to service provider success.

Industry experts will present broader insights from the global cloud communications market. The comprehensive data and expert analysis discussed at Cavell Enable will be vital for operators and service providers currently resetting business plans for the years ahead.

There will also be a chance to hear innovative ideas and the challenges faced by service providers winning battles in the cloud communications revolution. As always, networking is a massive part of Cavell’s events, with opportunities to build relationships and learn with key industry players.

If you’re a current or potential Microsoft partner and thinking about your business strategy for Teams telephony enablement or cloud communications generally, Cavell Enable will give you an excellent start for 2023 and beyond.
