Tuesday 24 October, 2023

Unlock the full potential of medical education with a user account on the Multiple Myeloma Hub website. The Multiple Myeloma Hub is the leading online platform for medical education in multiple myeloma, and we are thrilled to announce the launch of its new user account feature, designed to revolutionize the way medical professionals and students access and engage with medical content.

The new user account feature offers a range of benefits that will enhance the learning experience, making it more personalized, convenient, and tailored to individual needs. By signing up for a user account on the Multiple Myeloma Hub, users can unlock the following advantages:

- Bookmark and save content for later: With a user account, users can easily bookmark the articles, videos, and resources that they find useful. Whether it's a drug update, a video interview, or a case study, users can save content to access at a later time. No more time wasted searching for specific information or losing track of essential materials. The content that is most valuable to the user remains easily accessible for when they need to refer back to it or to refresh their learning.

- A bespoke learning experience: The user account feature allows users to select specific topics of interest within the disease area. Whether they're focused on a particular subtype or therapy area, users can customize their feed to ensure they receive the most relevant and up-to-date content in their chosen area. Over time, the system will then recommend specific content tailored to the individual user.

Mia Hill, Managing Director at Scientific Education Support, stated, "Our mission is to empower healthcare professionals with the latest knowledge and updates in their disease area. The introduction of user accounts is a step towards achieving this goal. We want our users to have a personalized and seamless learning experience, and the new features will undoubtedly enhance their journey."
