

dForce Announces New Partnership with Sage to Support Finance Leaders with High-Performance, AI-Enabled Accounting

Monday 26 January, 2026

dForce, a future-leaning UK-based professional services firm, has today announced a new partnership with Sage, the leader in accounting, financial, HR and payroll technology, to provide its clients with access to Sage Intacct.

Designed to support scale-up organisations, Sage Intacct equips finance leaders with high-performance accounting capabilities, providing real-time visibility across both financial and operational performance. Its intelligent automation and AI-powered intelligence help finance teams work smarter, accelerate reporting and make confident, data-led decisions, while supporting stronger controls across industries including Professional Services, Business Services, Financial Services, Not for Profit, Software and Hospitality.

By bringing together dForce's deep expertise in selecting and implementing business systems for Professional Services organisations with the award-winning accounting and finance solution, Sage Intacct, organisations can benefit from improved financial visibility, stronger operational control and more informed decision-making as they scale.

"Finance leaders need more than disconnected, legacy systems to get ahead – they need a clear, real-time view across the entire business," said Andy Draper, CEO at dForce. "By combining our experience supporting Professional Services organisations with Sage Intacct's high-performance accounting capabilities, we help finance teams build functions that scale with confidence, improve control and deliver meaningful insight."

"Partners like dForce are central to how we help scale-up organisations modernise their finance operations," said Paul O'Riordan, VP, Medium Segment, UKI, Sage. "With a strong focus on Professional Services and deep implementation expertise, dForce is helping finance leaders use automation and AI-driven insight to scale with greater confidence. As demand for AI-enabled finance continues to grow, partners are critical in helping customers adopt these capabilities in meaningful, practical ways."
