

Double Glazing Prices Drives Quality Results with New System

Tuesday 31 January, 2012

(United Kingdom - 30th January 2012) Double Glazing Prices recently announced its commitment to its customers through a new stringent vetting system which ensures that any installation carried out will be of the highest quality. The team at Double Glazing Prices works hard to ensure that every individual that chooses to use the service is greeted with friendly customer service and competitive installation prices.

The unique system which has been put in place means that only FENSA and CERTASS accredited suppliers will be chosen to carry out any work. The team works hard to guarantee that all Double Glazing installations will be carried out to a professional standard.

Double Glazing Prices has carried out more than 50,000 home improvements installations and is confident that it can provide its customers with up to 75% off installation prices from FENSA and CERTASS registered suppliers.

In order to take advantage of the money saving offers available on the site, Double Glazing Prices uses a tested and unique process which has proven popular with customers. Simply fill in details in the quote form on the site and a member of the team will get to work finding the customer three free, no obligation quotes from FENSA and CERTASS registered suppliers. The team will contact each customer personally to discuss details of installation and the advantages of installing double glazing during the winter months.

The ethos at Double Glazing Prices is to provide a wide range of high quality double glazing doors, windows and conservatories, each of which is delivered at a competitive price and fitted to the highest quality. To learn more about installation or how to get your three competitive quotes from the team and to take advantage of the new vetting system, simply visit the site where more information will be found.
