Two Chicks, the company responsible for bringing liquid egg whites to the UK, has launched a new, effortlessly easy product.

Its pasteurised Liquid Whole Egg chilled carton offers a quick, fuss-free way to include eggs in dishes and get some protein into your diet. Plus, there's no more sifting out broken shell or cracking lots of eggs – just open the carton and get cooking!

Each 500g fridge-friendly carton contains ten free-range eggs in pasteurised liquid form. The product was developed after customer feedback on the success of Two Chicks' original Liquid Egg White pack.

As busy people increasingly look for short-cuts in the kitchen, Liquid Whole Egg provides a minimal effort alternative to multiple egg cracking. It's ideal for family meals, weekend breakfasts or for a passionate amateur baker!

The carton is also an easy way to create high protein, low carbohydrate meals, such as omelettes and scrambled eggs. As it's pasteurised, it removes any worry over the use of raw egg and is obviously also safe for those who are pregnant, for babies/toddlers and for the elderly.

Liquid Whole Egg is available in Asda, Sainsbury's, Tesco, selected Waitrose stores and via Ocado. RRP £3.00 for 500g (look in the butter section). twochicks.co.uk / @2chicksproducts.

As well as Whole Egg and Egg White cartons, Two Chicks also makes a three-strong range of egg white protein snacks called 'Chirps'.
