Electricals 247 Launch New Website

Tuesday 8 April, 2014

Electrical components, tools and supplies are becoming ever popular as an online purchase, with many tradesmen, electricians making their purchases online and having them delivered to their doorstep.

Convenience is key, and an entire week's supply of tools and equipment can now be ordered in advance, with delivery straight to your door-step or work place.

Earlier this year, Electricals 247 launched their brand new website, catering not only for those working in the electrical trade, but also to the general public by offering a comprehensive range of electrical supplies at trade prices.

With the experience that comes with running a trade counter for over 20 years, and the convenience and cost benefits of online selling, Electricals 247 is uniquely poised to provide the best selection of electrical products at the best possible price.

Offering leading UK brands, and over 9000 stock items, Electricals 247 is able to supply a large range of items, from a replacement fuse or battery, a new tool kit, to a more complex item such as a whole house ventilation kit or air conditioner.

To stand out from the crowd, and provide an accessible service for the public, Electricals 247 offer some unique benefits which most other retailers simply aren't able to provide.
