Emma Bridgewater exclusive tea set raises over £600 for Pancreatic Cancer Action

Tuesday 28 June, 2016

Iconic
British pottery designer and manufacturer Emma Bridgewater has thrown her support behind a pancreatic cancer charity by designing a bespoke Over the Hills and Far Away tea set.

The
set, which included a one-gallon teapot and 20 mugs, was auctioned and sold for £620 on eBay for UK Charity Pancreatic Cancer Action, a charity that exists to save lives by driving early diagnosis of pancreatic cancer.

The
tea set was designed to commemorate the 125-mile charity walk completed by Rupert Lycett-Green in memory of his wife, and Emma's dear friend, Candida Lycett-Green, who died of pancreatic cancer in August 2014. The funds from the tea set have pushed the total raised from Rupert's walk to over £62,000!

Former
Saville Row tailor Rupert and his dog Spot walked for 10 days across the beautiful Yorkshire Dales and Northumberland National Park and raised thousands for Pancreatic Cancer Action.

Emma
said: "Rupert Lycett-Green's extraordinary walk in memory of his wife, my very dear friend and hero Candida, was an inspiration. Walking behind him striding out high over the moors evoked most powerfully Candida's passion and love for the English countryside and her work to protect it.

"Her earlier ride and Rupert's walk across the top of England have raised money and awareness of this cruel form of cancer and I am so pleased to have been involved with this marvellous project."

Acclaimed
writer Candida, who was the daughter of poet, broadcaster and architect critic, Sir John Betjeman, died of pancreatic cancer just 9 months from diagnosis.

Rupert
said: "Beautiful, funny and kind, Candida braved it out for nine months after she was told she had the disease. Before her death, Candida raised money for Pancreatic Cancer Action with our daughter Imogen saying that pancreatic cancer was "the Sheffield Wednesday" of tumours due to how little research funding was spent on the disease. This is why I wanted to do something to continue her campaign for more funding and awareness of the disease."

Pancreatic Cancer Action, which focuses on improving the survival rate of the disease - it has remained at just four percent for 40 years - by working towards earlier diagnosis of the disease so that surgery, currently the only cure, is made available to the sufferer.

Ali
Stunt, Founder of Pancreatic Cancer Action, said: "We are very grateful to Emma Bridgewater for producing these lovely pieces of pottery for our charity.
