Equiduct announces appointment of Stephen Jarvis as CFO

Thursday 17 March, 2022

Stephen Jarvis also joins the senior management team

London, 17 March 2022: Equiduct, the pan-European retail exchange, announced today the appointment of Stephen Jarvis as Chief Financial Officer. Stephen joins the company at a crucial moment in their growth trajectory and brings with him a wealth of experience.

Stephen Jarvis is a growth-oriented CFO and has guided companies through key stages in their lifecycle: capital raise, growth, sale and integration. His 10-year tenure at Carbon Clear, and then EcoAct, culminated in the integration of EcoAct into a Paris listed technology company, Atos. Prior to that, Stephen enjoyed a 13-year career in the City as an analyst and fund manager at Lansdowne Partners, UBS Global Asset Management and Morgan Stanley.

David Murphy, CEO of Equiduct said: “I'm very pleased to welcome Stephen to the team, bringing the skills and experience to support the company's expansion plans as we continue to see strong growth and demand. This is an exciting phase for Equiduct and we have the right team in place to deliver on our ambitions for the next chapter.”

“I am delighted to be joining the Equiduct team at such turning point in the business”, commented Stephen Jarvis, CFO of Equiduct, on his appointment, “The foundations for growth are clear for all to see, while the innovative Apex product and the fantastic team made the decision to join an easy one. It’s going to be an exciting ride!”.

Stephen is the newest member of the expanded Equiduct senior management team, which also recently saw Wail Azizi promoted to Chief Strategy Officer.
