

European 'Ali' Scoutstock the new platform for B2B

Wednesday 12 May, 2021

European

wholesalers and businesses who want to be involved in national and international business can visit the European platform Scoutstock as of May 2021. The young, dynamic company focusses on the vibrant trade and services within the EU, but also outside the European borders.

Europe is successful within the national and international trade. In countries such as China, India or Brasil the demand for European products, which are of better quality, rises. These upcoming markets offer new opportunities to European trading companies: an innovative platform for B2B worldwide.

Worldwide access

Scoutstock is designed for European B2B wholesalers and service providers. The platform offers wholesalers and companies the possibility to acquire new customers and to trade at an international level. It is possible for companies worldwide to trade with European companies in an easy way. This makes the international trade market more accessible for entrepreneurs as well as small and medium enterprises.

Companies can create a free account at Scoutstock. The enterprise offers his products and/or services via a subdomain/company page. Expansion to a premium membership offers even more benefits.

Platform in own language

Scoutstock is displayed by default in English, but is easy to translate in any language required including Chinese or French.

The European platform is widely directed and offers business opportunities for all sectors. From agricultural products to real estate, from batch goods to services: Scoutstock is the business trading platform that will expand the European market.

Scoutstock can be found at www.scoutstock.com or download the app for free (Android & iOS).
