Alistair Butt to join Strabens Hall

Strabens Hall, the award-winning Chartered Financial Planning and Investment Consulting firm with offices in London and Nice, is delighted to announce that Alistair Butt has joined its Board as an Executive Director in London.

Alistair was a Director of Brooks Macdonald Financial Consulting from 1991, when Brooks Macdonald was founded, until 2014. More recently, he has been providing strategic consulting services to various wealth management businesses.

Alistair is joining Strabens Hall full-time to help implement the firm's expansion plans, and, in particular, to build the front office team.

He said: "Strabens Hall is a highly respected company with a very exciting future. They have built a firm foundation for growth, and I am delighted to be joining the team for the next stage in their development."

Strabens Hall CEO, Adam Benskin, said: "We are thrilled to welcome Alistair to our management team, at an exciting time for Strabens Hall. Despite the difficult environment of the last 15 months, we have materially increased our head count, revenue and assets under advice, and are now focussing on expanding our front office to build on this success. Alistair's experience and strategic insights will be invaluable as we seek to attract talented advisers and build on our strong growth of recent years."

About Strabens Hall: Strabens Hall provides strategic financial planning, investment consulting and wealth management services from their offices in London and Nice. They are independent, multi-award winning and chartered professionals, established in 2007.
