Familymoney.co.uk has just published an all-important checklist on how to protect your personal data when you apply for a loan online. It is aimed at providing potential loan customers with security tips and warning signals to look out for before applying for a loan.

Currently in the UK there are hundreds of brokers, comparison sites and affiliates that are becoming increasingly aggressive at getting personal details in order to sell them on to other brokers and lenders. Familymoney.co.uk, a respected online money magazine, has created the ultimate checklist designed to protect UK consumers from these companies. The checklist includes what features to look out for on websites and what signs to be aware of when applying for loans online.

Family Money has noticed that there is a new surge of brokers and affiliates that are putting in little effort to protecting the personal data of customers. They often sell the personal details to other brokers and lenders who then expose them further. This checklist will guide potential customers on how to protect themselves when they want to apply for a loan.

“At Family Money, we are constantly looking for ways to help consumers of the loan industry. Our essential checklist will help customers who are concerned about protecting their personal data. It is a short read for a long-term gain,” says Thomas Henderson, top blogger for Family Money.

Familymoney.co.uk is committed to helping consumers in the UK manage their finances. For customers looking to take out forms of credit this checklist is a must-read before they begin searching the web for an honest and legit company.
