

Feeld - the first dating app for couples reaches 200,000 downloads in 2 months after landing on Android.

Wednesday 12 October, 2016

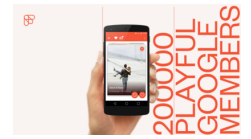

Feeld first started as a threesome app and expanded to a more sophisticated way of exploring the boundaries of a relationship. Feeld's mission since the beginning has always been to provide a platform for the new generation of humans who are curious about their sexuality.

Feeld is not backed by any venture capitalists and we are supported by our community. We truly believe that the only way to keep our ethics is to stay independent. Reaching 200,000 downloads in such a short time without crashing is a huge milestone for a company of our size (13 people working remotely in five different countries).

Feeld has gained a total of 1.8m members and it has been growing organically for the past 2 years. Couples comprise 25% of everyone on the app, and 40% of them are by women. The majority of male and female couples are looking for a woman or another couple.
