

Fellowes Selects Brookes as Strategic Supply Chain Planning Partner

Thursday 20 November, 2025

Brookes, a leading supply chain planning consultancy, is proud to announce that Fellowes, the global office products and workspace solutions provider, has selected Brookes as its strategic partner for demand planning and inventory optimisation.

Following a rigorous evaluation process, Fellowes chose Brookes to support its global supply chain transformation. The partnership will begin with implementation across Fellowes European operations and then a phased expansion to North America operations.

Richard Chandler, Head of Customer Experience and eCommerce at Fellowes said "Brookes took the time to really understand our issues and through a series of demonstrations of the SO99+ software gave us confident that we chose the right platform to give us the visibility and control we need to serve customers better and faster."

"We're thrilled to welcome Fellowes to the Brookes family," said Martin Woodward, CEO of Brookes. "Their team brought a high level of rigour and clarity to the process, and we're excited to be deploying ToolsGroup's AI based supply chain planning solution."

The solution, SO99+, will enable Fellowes to streamline forecasting, automate replenishment, and improve service levels across its global network. Brookes' experienced implementation team and proven record in advanced analytics were key factors in the selection.

"Brookes impressed us with their knowledge and pragmatic approach to solve the pain points in our current technology and processes. I am confident they are the right partner in the first stage of our digital transformation." said David Haerle, Director of Global Sourcing & Supply Chain at Fellowes.
