

First Class Watches launches debut TV campaign

Thursday 17 December, 2015

First Class Watches, the UK's top-rated watch website, has recently launched its first ever TV advertising campaign. The TV ad campaign launched onto screens in early December looking to capture potential Christmas gift shoppers and will continue to run into the January sale period. The promotion is expected to reach more than 1.5 million viewers and is currently being shown on a wide selection of channels including More4, Dave, Really, Discovery, Discovery Turbo, Discovery Science, Gold, Shed and National Geographic.

The advertisement itself is a 30-second promotional clip which highlights their outstanding choice of over different 5000 branded watches to choose from. The new F150 Satellite GPS watch from Citizen is then showcased as an example of some of the exciting new technology on offer. The ad then focuses on a few of their unique selling points such as free next day delivery and the company's impressive selection of five star customer reviews.

"After trading online for over 10 years, we are very excited to bring First Class Watches to a wider audience and share our passion for personal customer service." – Scott Lucas, E-Commerce Manager

First Class Watches has already been featured in publications such as Stuff, GQ and Tatler and has industry leading reviews on websites such as Trustpilot, Google Certified Shops and ResellerRatings. Their first ever television campaign represents the ambition of all those involved in the team following another successful year online. Established in 2005, the website has become one of the UK's largest dedicated online watch retailers as authorised stockists of more than seventy watch brands. It has been their passion since launch - to create an internet business with fantastic customer support and product selection. Now having accomplished this, they are working to grow the business and heighten awareness with their first ever national TV advertising campaign.
