Know Why Your Goal Matters – Understanding a goal will assist in finding the motivation behind the action. Find the benefit and write it down. Gail Mathews of Dominican University did a study that found that those who wrote their goals down accomplished significantly more of them than those who didn't. This is the starting point; it will help with maintaining focus along the way.

Set A Deadline – Make the project time sensitive. It will allow time to be dedicated to making it happen. By offering a reminder, a note in a calendar or a post-it on a computer screen it will allow the task to receive the attention it deserves.

List The Obstacles That Will Get in Your Way - It is important to understand what may get in the way along the journey. It may be time, revenue, people or other tasks. "It is important to write down your own name, as realistically it will be a personal lack of focus that will become the biggest obstacle," says GB Marketing Enterprise.

Find Helpers – Whether the goal is personal or business related, it is important to understand the role of outside help. Understand personal strengths and develop a network that compliments your skills. Don't be afraid to ask for help.

Find Out What You Don't Know, And Make a Plan – Break down the goal in terms of time and cash. It should be a lengthy process that accounts a lot of details. The task should seem daunting, if it's not, the challenge probably isn't big enough. Once the breakdown is done, it's time to revisit the why.... If it's still worth it, let's go!
