Success never comes easy, states GB Marketing Enterprise. Therefore, the firm believes it is vital for business professionals to stay motivated even when challenges are thrown their way. Motivation is what pushes people to go forward and achieve great things, even during tough times, highlights GB Marketing Enterprise. Here, the firm have outlined their top 10 hacks to staying motivated:

Display your goals on your wall
"Put your goals in writing and then put them on a wall where you will see them often," says GB Marketing Enterprise. The firm advises people to review their goals every morning and every night, and glance at them as often as possible throughout the day. "If your goals don't excite you and challenge you, they aren't big enough."

Write down your priorities first thing in the morning

Make a list of all the important activities that need to be completed at the start of each day. List them in order of priority and then make a start on the most important one first. Don't spend the day being reactive, be proactive, states GB Marketing Enterprise.

Read before you go to sleep
"As well as a great way to unwind, if you pick the right book, this can also be a great way to learn and develop new skills as well as encourage a positive mind-set," says GB Marketing Enterprise. After reading a few pages take a moment to reflect on what you just learned and think of one action step that you can immediately take to put this in to place.

Don't complain
"You decide whether you have a positive or negative attitude in every situation," says the firm. GB Marketing Enterprise states how refusing to allow yourself to complain will eliminate any chance of a negative attitude. This will force individuals to remain positive and optimistic.

Don't sweat the small stuff
Don't worry about the things we can't control, and don't argue over small things. If something is truly important, give it 100 percent attention but if it's not, let it go, recommends GB Marketing Enterprise.

Spend more time with positive people
Spend less time with negative people, highlights GB Marketing Enterprise. The firm suggests spending time with positive people who encourage success and minimise the amount of time spent with people who are negative.

Recite positive affirmations
Positive affirmations are statements that can be recited aloud. "Create a list of these positive statements that reflect the values, ideals and beliefs you want to develop and uphold. Whenever you're in a tough spot, take a moment to recite your affirmations," says the firm.

Reward yourself for making progress
Break large goals into smaller milestones and celebrate every time something is accomplished. Every success is worth celebrating highlights GB Marketing Enterprise.

Look for the opportunity in every problem
Be the person who can find the hidden advantage in every negative situation. Focus on finding a solution, suggests GB Marketing Enterprise.

Know what you're fighting for
"Always know what you're fighting for. Whilst one half of your brain tries to convince you to quit, listen to
