

Get the Latest Scoop on Aussie Bingo

Thursday 12 September, 2013

Australian bingo fans will be pleased to hear that bingo.com.au, a bingo related site with a difference, has been launched on the Web. Bingo.com.au is not yet another bingo hall on the already saturated Aussie market, but rather an online bingo information clearing house.

Bingo.com.au performs impartial investigations of Internet bingo sites which are geared toward Australian players. The reputable, licensed online bingo rooms are rated according to certain selected criteria, namely, game experience, customer support and promotional offers.

The service is free and no registration or sign up is required to take advantage of the bingo ratings.

Players can see at a glance how each bingo site ranks and how much bonus money is available when joining. This is useful to both beginning and veteran bingo players.

For more in depth information, a detailed review of every site is posted as well. Types of games, bonus amounts, ongoing and special promotions, security and customer support are all described. There is also a guide that tells players where to find quality bingo games for free, usually through bingo rooms which offer play with a free no deposit bonus.

In addition, Bingo.co.au provides an online bingo educational service for bingo buffs. The informational articles cover topics such as the differences between online and regular bingo, an updated bingo glossary and descriptions of the most popular bingo variants. There is a practical discussion of commonly accepted, secure methods for deposit to and withdrawal from player accounts at the online bingo rooms.

Players who are already familiar with the details of online bingo game play may want to immediately click on the Bonus Offer category. This brings up a convenient listing of all bingo bonuses and promotions currently on offer through the recommended Internet bingo rooms.

The site includes an Online Bingo News section whose purpose is to keep readers up to date with all the latest happenings in the online bingo world. This is the place to look for seasonal promotions, openings of new bingo sites and other current bingo news. The articles in this section are easy to share with friends, bingo partners or a social media group via Facebook, Twitter, LinkedIn, ShareThis or email.

To become part of the Bingo.co.au community, players can subscribe at no charge. This will give access to the free bingo email newsletter as well as special bingo related offers. It is also possible to follow Bingo.co.au on popular forms of social media, for all players who have Facebook or Twitter accounts. Players who would like to obtain these accounts may sign up directly through the site. The player's choice of a variety of bingo topics can be followed using Twitter.
