The executive search arm of London-based Mulsanne Partnership LLP has joined the Amrop Partnership SCRL. The move will allow Amrop to deliver and develop UK-based executive search expertise to its local and global client base.

The partnership agreement underpins the growth of Amrop's world-class executive search practice in Financial Services and FinTech, robustly supplemented by Technology and Media, Luxury Goods and Life Sciences. It will be further underscored by building Amrop's Leadership Assessment capabilities in the UK.

"The Mulsanne Partnership has spent the last nine years building an enviable track record placing senior leaders and specialized talent in some of the world's top financial institutions," said Amrop Chairman, Ulrich Dade. "This pedigree, combined with Amrop's global client footprint, will open up a huge range of exciting opportunities in the expanding UK market."

"Our strategy of broadening our sector coverage and talent management portfolio could not have found a better partner than Amrop," said Adam Saunders, Founding Partner of Mulsanne. "Having worked hard to build an outstanding team with a strong client services ethic and unparalleled industry knowledge, we are hugely excited about the opportunities this partnership will bring."

"Amrop has a 38 year history with 83 offices in 55 countries globally, who are dedicated to advising the world's best and fastest growing companies," added fellow Founding Partner Anthony Barry. "The executive search arm of Mulsanne has a long history of providing clients with high-level research and consulting services, something the company is keen to broaden into other sectors across the UK and beyond, under the Amrop brand."
