Recently, GoldStream Inc. have clocked up some miles, attending a client meeting in Manchester, as well as conducting recent business trips in Preston and Skegness. The business trips were planned to allow them to conduct market research in other cities, and in turn, exposing their clients' products and services to a wider audience. As well as having the opportunity to meet and network with other sales and marketing professionals across the UK, The Preston trip was the catalyst for the customer acquisition specialists achieving their best sales day to date. As well as the most recent trips, GoldStream Inc. have visited plenty more cities over the course of the past year including; London, Liverpool, Birmingham, Newcastle, Kent, Leeds, Sheffield, Cornwall, Bangor.

Goldstream Inc. have outlined their 3 top reasons entrepreneurs should travel:

1. Inspire new ideas.

Often the best ideas are conceived away from the office environment. A change of scene can provide a fresh perspective and inspire new ideas.

2. Meeting new people.

One of the main benefits of travelling is meeting new people, and the potential to build new networking relationships. Networking outside of a business event or office environment is a unique experience and can allow for a more personal relationship to flourish.

3. Testing limits

It isn't just a cliché; human beings are a product of their environment. Travelling takes people out of their day-to-day routines and away from the people they are usually surrounded by. It forces them to learn how to cope on their own, adapt to new environments, learn how to communicate with different types of people and manage time effectively.

GoldStream Inc. believe that everyone should make some time to travel and explore. While not everyone is afforded the luxury of being able to take a year out and go travelling around the world, whether it be a week at a time or a consecutive amount of time spent, "it is the quality of the experience, not the quantity that counts," said a spokesperson for Goldstream Inc. Travelling is something they firm urges every entrepreneur to do, allowing them to step outside of the familiarity of their everyday life, pushing the boundaries of their comfort zones, and growing as a person and a business professional.

GoldStream Incorporated is an outsourced sales and marketing firm based in Nottingham. The firm specialise in face-to-face, direct marketing techniques that allow them to create long-lasting and personal relationships between consumers and their clients' brands by creating personalised campaigns.
