Gradian Diagnostics announces first acquisition

Monday 16 December, 2019

MIAMI,FL: We are extremely pleased to announce that Molzym GmbH & Co. KG, a leading manufacturer of molecular diagnostic products, is joining Gradian Diagnostics. Molzym will become the first acquisition, bringing a wide set of products and services due to their wealth of experience and expertise in molecular microbial analysis, and their focus on deep research and automation.

Molzym was founded in 2003 and headquarters in Bremen, Germany. They are a highly experienced 20-strong team of doctors, researchers, technicians and laboratory specialists, and their work covers solutions for molecular microbiology research and routine microbial pathogen diagnostics. They are relied upon by many of the world's top hospitals and laboratories.

Prof. Michael Lorenz, founder of Molzym says: "I am delighted that Molzym will be joining Gradian Diagnostics. They share our values and hands-on, tailored approach to helping our customers achieve their aims. Being a leading microbial molecular diagnosis company we were keen to find trusted partners that we could collaborate with to deliver a full service, whilst also maintaining our focus. Being part of Gradian allows us to accelerate our growth and to set foot in the USA. Our customers will benefit, our staff will benefit, our current and new partners will benefit – a fantastic result all around."

Alex Malbran, president of Gradian Diagnostics shares: "We are excited to have such an outstanding and esteemed company joining the group. Our ambition is to deliver best-in-class solutions that help hospitals and labs with the challenges and opportunities they face today and in the future. This could not be better served than with the brilliantly talented, and exceptional people at Molzym. It's a privilege to have them on board and puts us in a position to improve molecular diagnosis for a broad range of customers."

Gradian Diagnostics is based in Miami, USA. It is a holding company working on expanding diagnostic solutions by acquiring assets and companies with validated products around the world.
