Friday 18 October, 2019

Harlow, UK – 18th October 2019 - Haag-Streit UK (HS-UK), the leading manufacturer and distributor of gold-standard optometry and ophthalmic equipment and John Weiss & Son, manufacturer and distributor of high quality ophthalmic surgical instruments and procedures, are delighted to confirm details of the upcoming Haag-Streit Academy 2020 Glaucoma Symposium.

The Symposium will be held at The Radisson Blu Hotel & Conference Centre, Stansted Airport on Thursday 30th January. The objective of the Haag-Streit Academy 2020 Glaucoma Symposium is to bring together specialists from all over the UK, and further afield, to facilitate a wider exchange of ideas and concepts and to evoke stimulating discussions, focusing on current and future diagnostics, treatment and management strategies in glaucoma care.

The confirmed Haag-Streit Academy 2020 Glaucoma Symposium Faculty, includes;

- Professor Rupert Bourne, Anglia Ruskin University
- Professor Fiona Rowe, Professor in Orthoptics & Health Services Research, University of Liverpool
- Mr Imran Masood, Consultant Ophthalmic Surgeon, Birmingham
- Mr Michel Puech, Ophthalmologist, Associate Manager Explore Vision, Paris
- Mr Anurag Garg, Imperial College London

Symposium topics include;

- The value of skillful biomicroscopy in the diagnosis, management and treatment planning in patients with glaucoma - practical tips
- Visual fields in glaucoma
- Minimally Invasive Glaucoma Surgery (MIGS), featuring Ab-Interno Canaloplasty (ABiC)
- OCT Angiography in glaucoma.
- SLT: the impact of the LiGHT Study on early treatment

This CPD-accredited programme consists of short lectures, followed by workshops and Q&A sessions with the audience (CPD points have been applied for, but not yet confirmed). The event will also provide invaluable networking opportunities.

Workshops will include:

- Slit lamp gonioscopy demonstration and hands-on session
- Octopus 900 visual field tests for glaucoma set-up and demonstration
- iTrack (ABiC) demonstration and drylab hands-on session
- OCTA peripapillary capillariy segmentation and analysis demonstartion and hands-on session
