London, UK –
Halo Dogs, London's premier luxury dog hotel, adventure dog daycare experience, and education centre is proud to announce its strategic partnership with DogForum.co.uk, the UK's most popular online dog community. The collaboration brings together Halo Dogs' expertise in premium canine care with Dog Forum's vibrant community of dog owners, creating a trusted platform for knowledge-sharing, training resources, and wellbeing advice.

DogForum.co.uk has long been recognised as the UK's most active and respected online hub for dog lovers, offering peer-to-peer support, advice, and discussions on everything from nutrition and training to breed-specific needs. Now, through this partnership, the forum's community of thousands will gain access to Halo Dogs' professional insights, extending expert guidance to dog owners across the nation.

Halo Dogs, based in Enfield, has built a reputation for providing unparalleled care on its 540-acre countryside estate. Founded in 2009 by Justin Kumaran, Halo Dogs was originally established as a dog rescue centre before evolving into a 5-star rated facility offering training, daycare, grooming, and luxury boarding services. It was the first daycare centre in London licensed for 100 dogs per day and has since hosted over 500,000 visits, serving as a benchmark for excellence in the dog care industry.

"This partnership represents a natural alignment between two organisations that put dogs and their owners at the heart of everything they do," says Justin Kumaran, Founder of Halo Dogs. "By combining Halo Dogs' professional care and training expertise with Dog Forum's community-led approach, we can support every owner, every breed, and every stage of life, helping ensure dogs live happy, healthy, and fulfilling lives."

Through this collaboration, members of DogForum.co.uk can expect access to exclusive expert content covering dog training, behavioural advice, health and wellbeing tips, and guidance for owners navigating the different stages of a dog's life. At the same time, Halo Dogs clients will benefit from the supportive network Dog Forum provides, connecting with like-minded owners who share a passion for dogs.

The initiative reinforces both organisations' shared mission: to put dogs first, while equipping their owners with the tools, knowledge, and community support they need. From luxury boarding to everyday behavioural challenges, this partnership provides an unmatched combination of professional expertise and grassroots community connection.
