

Hertford Based Business Continues to Support Key Industries in Unprecedented Times

Thursday 14 May, 2020

An award-winning distribution business based in Hertford, is maintaining supply to ensure its clients in key industries can continue to provide full service to the public during the COVID-19 lockdown.

Air Energy, a distributor of air compressors, vacuum pumps and low-pressure blowers, supplies and services clients in pharmaceutical, hospital and food manufacturing industries. They ensure that the air compressors used, which are vital for the continued production of ventilator parts, the manufacturing of drugs and food production, can continue to meet business demands.

Mark Asker, Managing Director commented: "We know how vitally important it is for our clients in these key industries to have our full level of service at these unprecedented times. We are working around the clock to ensure that these key industries can continue to run at optimum performance".

Mark continued to explain the importance of maintenance. "If air systems become contaminated the results can be devastating for a business, resulting in downtime for owners and operators. Problems from reduced performance can be severe, leading to product spoilage and damage to the production equipment itself. As such compressed air is often seen as the 'fourth utility' in these industries.

Our site in Mead Lane, Hertford, has implemented clear procedures in line with social distancing rules to ensure the safety of all staff, allowing the business to operate through the Coronavirus pandemic. I am really proud of the team for their continued support and efforts through these challenging times"

The firm's extraordinary levels of service saw it win the 'Gardner Denver European Distributor of the Year 2019' award. Mark added, "This award has helped us to win many new service projects across the region."
