

House Of Commons Launch For Asian Curry Awards

Tuesday 10 September, 2013

- Key issues raised at influential networking event
- "New business models, fusion cuisines, healthier menus, wider use of social media and technology with exciting marketing, communication and promotion"

The Rt Hon. Tom Brake MP, Deputy Leader of the House of Commons, hosted the launch of the third Asian Curry Awards at the House of Commons on Wednesday 4th September.

Held in the Terrace Pavilion overlooking the River Thames, the function attracted an impressive range of leading figures, including Ambassadors, High Commissioners and other diplomatic representatives, Lord Sheikh, the Rt Hon Keith Vaz, Chairman of the Home Affairs Select Committee and Rushanara Ali MP, Shadow Minister for International development.

Welcoming the role of the Awards in recognising the industry's talents and endeavours, guest speakers praised the contribution made to the economy by Asian restaurants and acknowledged the challenges faced during a tough trading environment. Several called for a cut in VAT for the hospitality industry.

"The evening gave the ideal platform to raising key issues such skills shortages, training and employment, whilst others raise the importance of embracing training," said Councillor Thomas Chan, Co-chairman of the Asian Catering Federation (ACF) and organisers of the Asian Curry Awards in conjunction with the Federation of Bangladeshi Caterers (FoBC).

"The networking event was a tremendous success. I would like to thank our host, the Rt Hon Tom Brake MP, and other distinguished guests for their attendance and contribution," said Councillor Chan.

The evening was presented by Barrister Anwar Babul Miah and the list of speakers included Yawar Khan FoBC, Rt Hon Tom Brake MP, Cllr Thomas Chan ACF, Rushanara Ali MP - Shadow Minister for Foreign Affairs, HE Pasan Teparak - Ambassador of Thailand, Lord Sheikh - Chairman of the Conservative Muslim Forum, John Allan - Chairman of the Federation of Small Businesses, Teddy Chen ACF, Annette Hallmark, Head of Professional Standards People 1st and Saad Gazi - Hon Chairman, FoBC.

During his speech ACF's Thomas Chan spoke of the sector's £4 billion contribution towards the economy and its need to forge partnerships with other organisations such as the Federation of Small Businesses, the British Hospitality Association and People's 1st, which were present at the launch. He praised the "younger, well educated and more imaginative entrepreneurs" with "new business models, fusion cuisines, healthier menus, the wider use of social media and technology, exciting marketing, communication and promotion activities."

Lovers of Asian food can nominate their favourite restaurants for the third Asian Curry Awards (ACA). The awards are open to all Indian and Asian restaurants in Britain.

Following 11 regional heats across the country the winners will be announced at a high profile, glittering award dinner being held at the Grosvenor House Hotel on Park Lane in London on Sunday 17th November 2013. There will also be awards for the Asian and Oriental Chef of the Year and Young Chef of the Year.

"These awards recognise the huge successes made by business owners across the whole of the curry industry and ensure that key players are lauded for their achievements," said Yawar Khan, Chairman of the ACA, who added, "Every restaurateur has a unique background and story – awards reflect a lifetime of work, honouring the dedication and commitment of people who have contributed so much to the continued vibrancy and growth in the sector."

Nominations forms may be downloaded from the ACA website www.asiancurryawards.co.uk. Short-listed candidates will be announced online, with regional finalists being invited to attend a Cook off to be judged by a panel of industry experts and celebrity curry lovers.

Competing chefs will be invited to prepare a signature dish and judged on criteria of innovation, technical skill, nutritional value, food safety, creativity and, of course, taste. From these, a shortlist will be drawn with winners selected by FoBC and ACF consultants and industry experts.
