Thursday 8 August, 2013

Indie Singer Songwriter 'Sir. O' to release a catchy rock single, asking you all to "...please stop talking, let's start feeling..."

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

London, England, 8 Aug, 2013 -- Sir. O will be celebrating "Please Stop Talking" début single release with a special gig with Absent Kelly at Brixton Jamm, 7 September, London, supporting an acoustic show from The Subways frontman Billy Lunn.

Please Stop Talking is an upbeat, dance friendly song, intertwining a picked electric guitar alongside a pop-ish singing. The hugely catchy track pounds along energetically, and along a lush production - brings together all the layers perfectly to make it a fun song.

Written and recorded in the hills overlooking the Sea of Galilee, Israel, alongside producer Yogev Samina of Lool Records, Please Stop Talking is a product of Sir. O's dedicated musical career and is part of his upcoming début album "Forever Plus a Day".

Taking influences from Britpop to Rock, fellow singer-songwriters, Sir. O has managed to craft his own distinct sound. His commitment, shows through Please Stop Talking, signals Sir. O as an exciting new prospect and is set to capture the attention of pop/rock fans everywhere.

After releasing "someone you're thinking of", a three track EP, in April with a stunning headline set at the O2 Islington, Sir. O will be publicly releasing "Please stop talking" to National Radio stations, and to iTunes on 16 September.
