The global software testing specialist Inspired Testing has won the coveted EMEA Partner of the Year Award from Neotys who are the developer of the industry standard automated performance testing platform, NeoLoad.

As the only Neotys Premier Partner in the UK and having actively built up its software testing expertise in South Africa, in partnership with Neotys, for almost two decades, Inspired Testing recorded some impressive achievements in 2020, including:

- Certifying 6 new experts in South Africa, for a total of 11 experts including some Neoload instructors
- 1200 per cent growth in new business
- 2 new clients introduced to Neoload with yearly license
- 1 yearly license renewal as part of a managed service contract
- One of largest EMEA deals in 2020 for a large retailer

“We are delighted and humbled to have been recognised by Neotys in this way, and I owe a debt of gratitude to my incredible team at Inspired Testing along with our supportive partners at Neotys for this award,” says Bruce Zaayman, Director: Specialised Services, Inspired Testing.

“I’ve personally been using NeoLoad for more than 17 years, and it’s been a cornerstone of my performance testing career,” says Zaayman.

“Our collaborative partnership is massively important to our business, and not just from a licensing and revenue perspective. We work closely together to deliver services to our clients, not only automated performance testing services but managed services as well."

“While we are tool agnostic as a company, NeoLoad remains one of our solutions of choice for enterprise quality performance testing,” he adds. “It makes scripting easy, makes executing and reporting very straightforward and to the point, and allows our clients to obtain results faster and more cost effectively than most other tools on the market.”

Laurent Gaudy, Senior Director, Partners & Alliances, Tricentis: “Inspired Testing has literally been inspired in the past year, no pun intended, adding record-breaking numbers and revenue growth to many years of productive collaboration,” says Laurent.

“The company has a strong presence and recognised experience and service quality in both South Africa and the UK, and has consistently shown a collaborative and proactive attitude to our business.”

In March, testing software giant Tricentis announced its acquisition of Neotys, adding NeoLoad to its AI-driven, end-to-end continuous testing platform.

“We look forward to renewed energy and motivation on the back of this award, and together with Tricentis, to continue building on our excellent foundation of success,” Zaayman concludes.
