

International language service provider opens agency in Glasgow (Scotland)

Monday 14 January, 2019

On 3 January 2019, Optilingua International expanded its operations to include a branch in Glasgow (Scotland). Alphatrad UK now has two points of contact: London and Glasgow.

With the new branch, the Europe-wide agency is responding to the ever-increasing demand for language and translation services in Glasgow, and Scotland in general. In addition, the new branch helps significantly by reducing the distance to existing business partners.

The French-Swiss company has more than 40 years of industry experience under its belt and in addition to specialist translations in numerous world languages, it offers voice-over services in English and other languages, certified translations, interpreting, proofreading, foreign language type-setting, subtitles and audio transcriptions. Based on its success in its existing locations so far, it is expected that more branches will be opened in Europe in the near future.

Translation services for international success

ALPHATRAD supports companies across the world through precise technical translations in over 100 languages worldwide, and in both directions – from the source language to the target language and vice versa. ALPHATRAD has a branch office in London, Glasgow and another 80 in the rest of Europe, as well as an international translator network of 3,500 qualified translators and native speakers to call upon.

ALPHATRAD translators only translate into their native language and work in their fields of expertise, guaranteeing the necessary technical knowledge for each translation. They use translation memory systems such as TRADOS. The audio services and voice recordings provided by ALPHATRAD are also based on these principles, ensuring the absolute professionalism of the translation service which is a key factor for companies.
