Interview with Simon Reynolds, Iconic Strategies MD

Question: How was it transitioning from life as a direct marketer to building a company? Did your approach to selling change along the way?

Simon: To be honest the foundations have always stayed the same, why try reinventing the wheel? Yes there are areas where we have some extra edge, but solid foundations and systems are the backbone of any great company.

Question: What are some ways that a brand can connect and interact with consumers and/or decision makers?

Simon: Obviously being a direct marketer I believe the best way a brand can connect with potential customers is through conversations. Speaking to customers directly offers such a fantastic opportunity to understand their needs. It can be inspirational for figuring out which marketing approach resonates with them. My biased opinion is that face-to-face marketing is the best possible way of reaching customers.

Question: The Direct Marketing Industry is growing despite the hype around Social Media Marketing. Why do you think that is?

Simon: Direct marketing is more detailed, more personal and the message can be tailored specifically to the target audience clients are looking for. The unique advantage we have compared to more traditional types of marketing from a client's perspective is that we work on a No win/No Fee basis. Economic or seasonal change has no effect on our business and that's why we are growing so rapidly.

Question: What does 2014 hold for Iconic Strategies?

Simon: Well since there is such a demand for our services we have some massive expansion plans for 2014. As more and more businesses are looking for guaranteed, stable, cost-effective ways to market and sell their products, we are under a lot of pressure to expand and grow - all businesses need customers - not just here in the UK but also internationally.
