J Foster Consulting Ltd delivers training on the new BRC Global Standards

Thursday 22 January, 2015

J Foster Consulting Ltd has delivered the first public training course for the British Retail Consortium following the latest BRC Global Standard for Food, Issue 7, which was published on 7th January 2015.

The new BRC Global Standard, issue 7 covers a multitude of topics including food safety, logistics and supply chain. This latest update also focuses on food security, which is a brand new standard introduced this year, to ensure the robust chain of custody in supply chain management.

An experienced BRC Approved Training Provider, Josie Foster has over 30 years expertise in the management and training of BRC standards, and is one of just eight BRC approved consultants globally.

Issue 7 comes into force on 1st July 2015, and means that all food manufacturers, food storage, distribution businesses and food agents / brokers will be affected. The standard places a responsibility on business owners to fully manage and understand every stage in the supply chain process, from food source to manufacturing plant and then onto warehouse and distribution centres.

Josie Foster, Managing Director, says "The participants, all Technical Managers from various areas of the food industry, are now able to return to their companies and start implementing the changes that are required, to enable them to achieve certification to Issue 7 of the standard."

This training ensures that businesses have every opportunity to implement the relevant strategies to comply with the latest BRC regulation, from the first-hand knowledge of an approved BRC training provider.

Azin Parsa, Head of ATP Franchise at BRC said, "Josie has been an approved training provider for many years and has been working closely with the BRC Global Standards team to deliver training courses for our Stakeholders. We are delighted to have Josie as part of our team."
