From her early days in Aguas Buenas, Puerto Rico, to her impressive career in entertainment and business, Joyce's story is one of resilience, ambition, and triumph.

Joyce Giraud's rise to prominence began with a diverse background that includes stints as a KFC employee, a model, and a contestant in various beauty pageants. Her initial exposure to modelling came unexpectedly when a photographer discovered her while she was working at a drive-thru. This fortuitous encounter led to a successful modelling campaign that would change the course of her life. Joyce's subsequent achievements include representing Puerto Rico in Miss Venus International, winning Miss Puerto Rico, and placing as a finalist in Miss Universe.

Transitioning from modelling to acting, Joyce appeared on iconic TV shows such as "Baywatch," "Joey," "House of Payne," and "Siberia." Her role as a cast member on "The Real Housewives of Beverly Hills" further solidified her status in the entertainment industry. But Joyce's ambition didn’t stop there.

Today, Joyce Giraud is a celebrated producer and entrepreneur. She created the highly acclaimed Latin reality show "Rica, Famosa, Latina" and its nighttime counterpart, showcasing her talent and vision. Her beauty empire, Joyce Giraud Beauty, has made remarkable strides, with her hairline becoming a top-seller on the shopping network and her award-winning hair supplement leading in subscriptions.

In an exclusive interview with Mind Jump Magazine, Joyce shared insights into her journey and the lessons learned along the way. Reflecting on her early days, she recounts working at KFC to fund her education and the serendipitous discovery by a photographer that launched her modelling career. Despite facing numerous challenges, including personal losses and health scares, Joyce’s unwavering positivity and gratitude shine through.

Joyce also opened up about her upbringing, her admiration for her grandmother, and the guiding principles that have shaped her life. Her philosophy of "waking up with a grateful heart and sprinkling seeds of kindness" resonates deeply, as she emphasises the importance of resilience, integrity, and finding joy even in the face of adversity.

In response to rumours, Joyce clarifies her experience with Donald Trump, stating that while he was the owner of Miss Universe during her competition, there was no inappropriate interaction. Trump’s respectful comments about her performance were appreciated, and Joyce holds no grievances.
