With over 40 years trading Birmingham's J.U.S.T Suspended Ceilings has earned a remarkable reputation. Now they have a new website that's simple to use and navigate for customers to explore and learn more about what they offer. The company specializes in all kinds of supply and installation services for suspended ceilings, mezzanine floors and office partitions in the extended Birmingham, England area and put an emphasis both on quality and delivering attractive price points.

“We are quite pleased with our revamped website and look forward to it attracting new clients,” commented a spokesperson from the company. “When it comes to suspended ceilings, office partitions and mezzanine floors we are the people to contact to get the job done right the first time!”

According to J.U.S.T Suspended Ceilings, both their office partitions and mezzanine floors are perfect ways to maximize space in an office or home. They are always sure to use the best in materials and to follow all local and national rules and regulations regarding the ceilings, floors and partitions themselves and the work done installing them.

All workers and fitters are qualified to the construction skills certification scheme (CSCS), as well as experts in their field, well versed in safety and health.

J.U.S.T. Suspended Ceilings are happy, after receiving an inquiry, to make an appointment to come to the potential job site and give a quote for free, without any obligation.

Testimonials from clients over four whole decades have been consistently positive.

J.C., from Birmingham, recently said in a five-star review, “Your workers have done a fantastic job, they were all so polite and helpful. A credit to your company. Fully recommended.”
