Škoda Fleet Team Evolves As Sales Continue To Soar

Wednesday 25 November, 2015

ŠKODA is adding three new members of staff to its fleet sales team, further strengthening its capability to respond to increased demand across corporate and SME clients. The car manufacturer has appointed a new National Fleet Sales Manager, Kerry Clark, to the team as well as two new Area Sales Managers, Eric Ekins and Hannah Cockayne.

Kerry Clark – who joins from within the Volkswagen Group – takes on a role that will ensure that the ŠKODA brand maximises its corporate sales offering across the country. Meanwhile, Eric Ekins and Hannah Cockayne will be overseeing Midlands & Northern Ireland and London & Home Counties respectively, supporting the brand to expand it throughout the UK.

The appointments coincide with recent figures showing corporate and SME (small and medium enterprises) sales up 24.9 per cent compared to 2014.

Patrick McGillycuddy, Head of Fleet at ŠKODA UK, commented: “Kerry, Eric and Hannah have bolstered our fleet sales operation at this crucial time. They bring a wealth of experience to the ŠKODA brand, which will ensure that our customer-focused, knowledgeable team is stronger than ever and continues to help our fleet sales soar.”
