Lamb's Rum is distributed in the UK by Halewood International, the UK's largest independent distributor and producer of alcoholic drinks.

About Lamb's Rum

Alfred Lamb, gentleman and proprietor of a wine and spirit business, created Lamb's Rum in 1849. He blended 18 of the Caribbean's most treasured rums sourced from Trinidad, Guyana, Jamaica and Barbados.

Mr Alfred Lamb understood that creating a smooth Rum took time and patience, which is why he stored his in a cool cellar for four years before allowing a drop to be drunk. Alfred used cellars under the River Thames to produce his traditional dark rum blend. His method of cask ageing the rum is one of the secrets behind the Lamb's smooth taste.

Today, Lamb's Rum is still made to the same exacting standards to create a premium quality rum with a smooth clean distinctive taste. By blending fine rums created from the highest quality Caribbean sugar cane, the Lamb's Rum blend delivers a complex yet smooth taste.

Drinkaware (drinkaware.co.uk) provides consumers with information to make informed decisions about the effects of alcohol on their lives and lifestyles. Halewood International is a funder of Drinkaware and an active supporter of the "Why Let Good Times Go Bad?" campaign.

Drinkaware's public education programmes, grants, expert information and educational resources help create awareness and effect positive behaviour change. An independent charity established in 2007, Drinkaware works with the medical profession, the alcohol industry and Government to achieve its goals.

One of the flagship initiatives of Drinkaware is "Why Let Good Times Go Bad?" - a £100 million campaign running over five years to challenge the social acceptability of drunkenness. Run by Drinkaware in partnership with the drinks industry and Government, it is targeted at 18 - 24 year olds. The campaign encourages people to adopt "smart drinking" tips, such as eating before drinking and pacing alcoholic drinks with water, to prevent a good night from going bad.

Drinkaware has recently launched 'My Drinkaware' an easy to use on-line Drinks tracker to help adults understand the impact of alcohol on their lives and lifestyles.
