

Lamp Post Launch Work Wear Range

Monday 31 March, 2014

Kent based electrical wholesaler The Lamp Post Electrical have been trading for almost twenty years, with a head office in Gillingham and trade counter in Canterbury.

In the last couple of years, an online presence was started, with an ecommerce platform now running to allow customers to place their orders online as well as at the trade counter.

This has presented an alternative popular method for those working in the electrical trade to place their orders for electrical supplies, with thousands of orders placed online since the site launching back in 2011.

New Products

Lamp Post are keen to keep on top of the latest products, whether it be a new item at the height of technology, or just simple day to day items to make tasks that bit easier.

That's why Lamp Post are now offering work wear for those in electrical or similar trades.

From steel capped safety boots and safety gloves from the Scruffs brand, through to t-shirts and jackets ideal for frequent daily use in a working environment, Lamp Post are now able to stock and supply work wear to keep customers safe and comfortable.

This new range ties in well with our already-available range of tool belts, cases, kit bags and tool kits. From the globally recognised and highly reputable CK Tools brand, their high quality tools and work equipment are perfect for taking the stress and punishment of every day construction and electrical work.

This new range of work wear is both functional and comfortable for wearing while at work, but also has a professional look to maintain appearances when met with a more business orientated situation.

Lamp Post are now able to offer not only the tools and equipment for the job, but now the clothing and safety equipment too. Everything is now truly available all under one roof, or rather, one online store.
