

Listings Give Away for English Tourism Week

Friday 16 March, 2012

The UK's first cottage comparison site CottagWorld.com is offering free listings for up to 50 English cottages in honour of the English Tourism Week promotion. Holiday home owners can see their cottage listed alongside over 11,000 others in the most comprehensive selection of holiday cottages from multiple sources.

English Tourism Week runs from March 10th to March 18th and is a celebration of all things English coordinated by VisitEngland (formerly the English Tourist Board). The visitor economy is worth £97bn a year to England and as VisitEngland say Tourism cannot be off-shored - it only happens here!

English owners looking to list their cottages for free should in the first instance email freelisting@cottageworld.com
