Living together for the first time can be challenging, let alone when you and your other half are couped up self-isolating.

Don't add to the pressure with worries over contraception.

- 117% increase in sales over the past 2 weeks*
- Larger packs being most popular choice
- 22% of subscription customers have asked for their orders to be sent ahead of schedule

From the Co-founder of HANX condoms Dr Sarah Welsh ~ a gynaecology doctor

At this difficult time, first and foremost we need to stay healthy and safe, follow government advice and support key workers all over the country.

As part of our overall health, we cannot forget sexual wellbeing. Many people rely on contraception from their healthcare provider which they may not currently have access to, or buying contraceptives from their local shops which can also be difficult at the moment.

As many couples self-isolate together, we cannot ignore the need for contraception at this time. It is vitally important we avoid unwanted pregnancies during this health crisis and all the potential hardships and complications these could bring.

At HANX, we have seen an increase in orders*, and have already donated 100 packs of condoms to customers in need, (are these NHS workers) ? but are aware there are many people who are still unable to access contraception.

Perhaps we can add some buzz bullet point stats too if we have them on tap at this time

HANX condoms can be delivered directly to your door and offer a safe and natural form of contraception. Subscription boxes also available online at hanx.co.uk saving 15% off the RRP and free shipping.

Prices from £4.24 for a 3 pack.
