London-based nowmedical re-opens its incredibly successful work experience programme: New 2023 intake coming soon!

Friday 27 October, 2023

nowmedical Limited, the UK’s leading provider of housing medical advice, are about to re-launch their previously successful work experience programme, giving local school/college students an incredible real-life learning opportunity.

Closed for the Covid pandemic, the re-opening of this scheme is the final return to normality for this major service provider.

Founder and CEO Dr John Keen states: 'We couldn't be happier to open our doors to some of our finest local youngsters again. As a company we gain so much from their enthusiasm and input, and we're truly delighted that we will be welcoming the first batch of successful applicants back soon.'

This excellent opportunity for outstanding students to experience a medical company and working GPs medical practice firsthand consists of an intensive one week course, and is particularly aimed at those students considering a career in medicine or an allied profession.

Dr Keen adds: 'From previous years' intakes, we have had at least 5 of our students go on to become fully qualified Doctors, and we're really looking forwards to adding to that number.'
