London IT Support Company Sereno achieves Cyber Essentials Plus certification.

- Independent assessment shows robust cybersecurity principles and capabilities at Sereno.
- Accreditation demonstrates high cybersecurity standards
- Strengthens Sereno's position to provide Cyber Security advice to partners.
- Steppingstone for imminent ISO 27001 certification

Sereno IT Support has reached a significant cybersecurity milestone in its business and has been awarded Cyber Essentials Plus (CE+) certification, a UK government-backed, industry-supported certification for cybersecurity.

The certification demonstrates that the company's policies and procedures are strong enough to protect against cyber threats. CE+ requires independent verification by an external auditor who conducts a series of technical assessments to ensure the company is protected against various attack scenarios. The evaluation assessed:

- Boundary firewalls
- Secure asset configuration
- Patch management
- User access controls
- Malware protection
- Mobile assets

IASME, an independent certifying body for the Cyber Essentials programme, awarded the certification, renewable every 12 months. In total, around 1000 digital assets were in the scope of the evaluation.

Elizabeth Procopio, Director, Sereno, said: "Cyber-attacks are a daily risk in today's world, and these attacks are also becoming more sophisticated. The Cyber Essentials Plus certification demonstrates that we have robust procedures and protections in place and show our partners that we take the security of their information seriously and have taken the necessary steps to reduce cyber threats.

Michael Johnson, Director at Sereno IT Support: "Cyber Essentials Plus is an excellent achievement for our company and shows our partners our commitment and credibility to help them be more cyber secure. This is a great stepping stone for our imminent ISO 27001 certification."

Cyber Essential is a government-backed scheme that helps companies protect themselves against cyber-attacks.

It was introduced by the UK Government's National Cyber Security Centre (NCSC).

Sereno IT Support based in Holborn, London excels in helping small and medium-sized businesses with IT Support, Cyber Security & IT Strategy and Advice.
