Nissan Motor (GB) Ltd is pleased to announce the following changes to the communications team.

We are delighted to welcome Lucy Goss to the Nissan press office. Starting on the 4th January, Lucy joins the team from Nissan Europe, where she was responsible for content development within the product communications team. In her new role, Lucy will look after Nissan's partnership activity, press events and internal communications.

Kayleigh Edwards (EV, Events and Corporate Communications Manager) will be leaving the UK team for a role within Nissan Europe, effective 27th November. Her new role will allow her to continue to focus on corporate and electric vehicle communications but on a Europe-wide level. The team would like to take this opportunity to wish her all the best in her new role.

Dominic Vizor (Product Communications Manager), who joined the team in August this year to oversee product communications, will take on EV communications as part of his current role, supported by Press Officer, Nayab Khan. Dom and Nayab will be the core points of contact for all matters relating to Nissan's product range including EVs.

Meanwhile, Linda Robinson (Media Relations Manager) adds corporate communications to her remit. She continues to be responsible for fleet, LCV and dealer communications.
